Be there again with all your senses

Bremen Classic Motorshow starts on February 3rd, 2023 at MESSE BREMEN

Thursday, October 6th, 2022 · Gently caressing the paintwork and chrome with your fingers, feeling the smell of petrol and oil in your nose, talking shop face to face with like-minded people - all this is possible again next year at the 21st edition of the Bremen Classic Motor Show. It takes place from Friday to Sunday, February 3rd to 5th, 2023, at MESSE BREMEN and traditionally marks the start of the classic car season in Germany.

The fair for vintage and young classics on two and four wheels had to take a two-year break due to the pandemic. "Now we're all looking forward to get the scene back together here in Bremen," says Frank Ruge, project manager of the Bremen Classic Motor Show. His team is currently working at full speed on the special shows, the trading platforms and the new YouTube channel.

The organizers used the corona-related break for innovation: they set up two online events lasting several hours. "A few tens of thousands of people watched it. And the feedback was great," says Ruge. "But the Bremen Classic Motorshow thrives on personal exchange, on seeing, hearing and feeling. That can only be done on site with everyone together." Next year it will be that time again. The third decade of the Bremen Classic Motorshow begins.

About the Bremen Classic Motor Show: Since 2003, the Bremen Classic Motor Show has been the first major classic motor show at the beginning of the year in Germany. On the first weekend in February, collectors and mechanics, beginners and enthusiasts, dealers and restorers, clubs and friends come together for three days in the halls of MESSE BREMEN. Up to and including 2020, up to 45,000 visitors celebrated the start of the classic car season at the presence fair on some 52,000 square meters of exhibition space. More than 700 exhibitors from twelve nations provided a wide range of products. In 2021 and 2022, the fair had to be canceled as a face-to-face event due to the corona pandemic.
